touching the motives of those who vention at New York and the animus. The writer quotes from the Cincinnati Enquirer an extract that has more than a passing significance for our West Virginia readers. The Enquirer is the leading Democratic paper of the West, and is a faithful exponent of the views of its party. It declares in the extract referred to, that when the Democracy get the majority in the House of Representatives they will refuse to admit members from the States whose constitutions are "not filegal." This means all he States that have been or may be admitted over the votes of the Democratic minority in Congress. The casual reader might suppose this meant only the States admitted under the military the States admitted under the military that the Democratic constant of the States admitted under the military and the solar system, of the temperature of the Gulf Stream, of the reconstruction bill; but the Democratic is continually brought to the notice of our Senstors and Representatives in Congress—and one which even an uninterested reader finds frequent evidences of in the Democratic prints of the country—that the Democratic party deales the validity of the State of West Virginia. About the latest and one of the most authentic expressions on the subject for two or three years, was interpolated by the Hon. Mr. Mungen of Ohio, in a speech delivered by him in the House of Representatives last fall it was not said in the heat of debatebut was inserted deliberately after the speech had been delivered and before it was printed. Our readers will remember that we printed this attack of Mr. Mungen's on our State and the reply to it by our Representative, Mr. Hubbard. Mr. Mungen is one of the most orthodox of Obio Democrats; and Congress-and one which even an unmost orthodox of Obio Democrats; and

Although the Democracy bere, ever since they made up their minds to re cognize the "borns" State and take part in its elections, have protested their fidelity to it, we do not forget living es their bitter hostility to it so long as they thought it could avail, and so long as they thought it could avail, and so long as they hoped to see it overthrown by the success of the rebellion. When Lee surrendered they surrendered. We judge these men as we judge all others, by their deeds, not by their words; and so judging them—knowing that they have relinquished nothing of their ancient haired of loyalty to the United States—We know these protestations are the mere mummerles of lip service, and that their hearts@are just where they were five years ago. They don't deceive anybody—not even themselves.

We do not propose at present to go over their record. It is fresh in the

We do not propose at present to go over their record. It is fresh in the collection of our readers. Copperbead bostility to this State is a part of the history of the rebellion. It is a matter of record that never can be expunged. We simply sak our readers to bear this record in mind and to reflect that the same men who were fighting us then are fighting us now. A few renegades have gone over to them; but we believe not a single man who

FRIDAY MORNING. JULY 3.

We reprint this morning from the Wesshington Chronick an able article touching the motives of those who will compose the Democratic Convention at New York and the animus of the party that sends them there. The witer quotes from the Cinchnata and the party that sends them there. The witer quotes from the Cinchnata and the party that sends them there. The witer quotes from the Cinchnata and the party that sends them there are an extract that has more than a passing significance for our West as passing significance for our series of the scholar, not in the cacher may be useful as the solution of the scholar passing the saction on the passing significance for our west as passing significance for in their word education (educere, to draw out), seem to have come nearer to the true idea than any other people have done. The teacher is to draw out the resources of the pupil. Yet even this word comes short of the exact truth. The teacher must put in, as well as draw out. No process of mere pumping will draw out from a child's mind knowledge which is not there. Al the power of the Socratic method, could it be applied by Socrates himself, would be unavailing to draw from a child's mind, by mere questioning, a
